"To balance the federal budget and reduce the national debt, it will require a reduction in spending coupled with increasing tax revenues. No committee or entire Congress will succeed until this fiscal reality is acknowledged and followed by difficult but necessary choices. It is now up to the Senate and House of Representatives to reach a solution which eluded the Joint Select Committee on Deficit Reduction."

###